British Empire Acclaims New King and Queen Magnificent Ceremony Broadcast O'er The World

Coleman People Join in Stirring Demonstration of Loyalty and Affection

COLEMAN was astir early on Wednesday morning; some had been up since 2 a.m. listening in on the wonderful Coronation service so splendidly broadcast over Canadian and United States stations. The description and the pageantry, the sounds of the great organ in Westminster Abbey, the anointing and administering of the oath and the paying of homage to the new king created a remarkable and inspiring impression on millions of people who for the first time though not actually witnessing the ceremony, were enabled to take part in spirit by means of radio.

In Coleman it was a noteworthy demonstration in which all sections of the population were proud to take part. The executive of the general committee expresses appreciation of the wholehearted co-operation given by the sub-committees, the various organizations and every individual who helped to make Coleman's observance of the Coronation an outstanding event in its history.

The day's program commenced with sports for the school children in the morning, when races, jumping, softball and football matches were competed in by over 600 children. Free distribution of ice cream cones helped to gladden the hearts of the young folks.

At noon a royal salute of 21 guns was fired, by firing at regular intervals sticks of dynamite, the charges being fired by electric battery.

At 1.30 p.m. the monster parade marched through town, headed by the Citizens' Band, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police under Sergeant Casway, the Canadian Legion with war decorations proudly displayed, under Lt.-Col. Barnes, senior military officer, Polish, Slovak, Italian Societies, the Elks lodge, Rangers, Girl Guides, Brownies and school children. The standard of the various societies and the flags carried by the children presented a colorful spectacle. An estimated crowd of 4,000 lined the streets.

Decorated floats, automobiles, the covered wagon of early days, the comic portrayals of the old and the new, represented effectively by a representation of an old automobile of the earliest vintage, propelled by a comically decorated horse hitched behind instead of before, made a combination which entertained the large number lining the route of the procession. The entries in the parade were the largest seen locally, splendidly decorated automobiles emblematic of the coronation, surmounted by elaborate royal crowns being very prominent, eliciting wide spread admiration for the pains and ingenuity of the owners.

The parade wound up at the arena which was jammed to capacity by a crowd estimated at 3,000. A large stage had been laid in the arena around which sat the various speakers. Mayor Pattinson, chairman, in his opening address thanked the various committees for their co-operation in making the celebration so successful.

The first half of the program was of a religious nature, Rev. H. J. Bevan, Lieut. Fitch of the Salvation Army and Rev. A. S. (Continued on Page 5)

Funeral of Sam Gembala

The funeral of Sam Gembala, 54 years, whose death was caused by drowning in Crow's Nest river, near his home in West Coleman, on Friday afternoon, May 7th, was held on Sunday. Members of the Polish Society, the Slovene National Benefit Society and the Miners Union followed from the house to Holy Ghost Church, where Rev. J. T. Dunbar, parish priest, conducted the service, following which burial took place in the Roman Catholic cemetery. The pall-bearers were Joe Spivek, Sr.; Joe Kwasnie, Joe Krywolt, Charlie Kanik, Mike Kubica and Andrew Kulig.

Deceased came from Poland to Canada in 1910 and worked at Bankhead, Exshaw, Fernie and Coleman, coming here in 1915, working in McGillivray mine until ill-health caused him to give up work four years ago. He suffered a paralytic stroke which incapacitated him from active work. He leaves besides his wife, one daughter, Mrs. Alex Kwasnie. A son, aged 21 years, died in 1921.

Coroner A. M. Morrison decided not to hold an inquest, certifying death as due to misadventure, there being no evidence to show how deceased came to be in the water.

His son-in-law, Alex. Kwasnie, stated that as Mr. Gembala did not turn up for supper at the usual time on Friday afternoon, following his customary walk, he began to feel concerned. He was in his garden, and glancing towards the river saw a dark object, which he at first took to be a floating log. Closer examination revealed it to be a human body, and he received a shock when he recognized it as Mr. Gembala. He quickly summoned assistance from the house and brought the body to the bank, Dr. McLean arriving very shortly after. Though artificial respiration was tried, it was of no avail.

Sympathy is extended to the family in the tragic death of Mr. Gembala.

Tennis Notes

The junior tournament scheduled for this week-end has been postponed until Saturday, May 22, owing to the courts not having been put into proper shape and giving the juniors one week more of practice and an opportunity of having their own racket and balls for the competition.

A number of parents have approached Mr. Shone, president, regarding entrance of their youngsters into the junior club, and, states Mr. Shone, if present interest is an indication of the number of juniors who will become members, the junior club will reach an all-time high in membership.

Both seniors and juniors will be given until the end of May in which to pay their dues, after which club rules will be enforced and only members will have the privileges of the courts.

A senior tournament will be sponsored on May 23 or 24 with the purpose of having members, old and new, get the feel of competition for tournaments which will take place in various parts of the province.

President Shone has invited the newly organized Pincher Creek club to a series of tournaments during the season but has failed to receive a reply to his invitation.

Culture In The Country

Culture blooms in the country districts of the prairie provinces of Western Canada.

In the United States, Europe is popularly regarded as the fount of knowledge, of the source of the best in literature and the aesthetic arts. In Canada people are prone to look to the older lands and particularly Britain for inspirational direction and in the country districts of Western Canada there is a tendency to regard the cities as the seats of culture and wisdom.

But facts demonstrate the contrary to be the truth. On the farm and in the small town and village the search for wisdom and beauty is more keen than in the cities and it is there that birth is given to discriminating appreciation of the beautiful in the fine arts and this, despite the fact that opportunities for development of cultural attainments is restricted as compared with the larger centres.

It is true that in the cities one will find intellectual leaders and competent exponents of art, music and the drama. But where did they originate? In a substantial percentage of instances, the farm or the small town home will be found to have given them birth and it is the source of at least their early education. Later, because of the necessity of finding an outlet for their activities they move to the cities and there is a steady infiltration of talent from the country to the urban centres. If it were not so, culture in the cities would eventually wilt of inanition and die for lack of revivifying material.

For even as the land is the original source of wealth, so also, is it the fountain of thought and culture.

As this new country becomes more and more stabilized one finds an increasing number of individuals and groups from country points capturing major awards at provincial and western music and drama festivals and often, where winners give city addresses, the credit should be given to the farm home or the small town school for the initial development of the talent they represent.

At provincial exhibitions one sees initiative expressed to a high degree in arts and crafts exhibits from small town and country schools and letters to the editor appearing in city dailies from correspondents at country points frequently reveal concentrated thought and discriminatory analysis to a greater degree than is found in effusions from city residents.

That this should be so need not occasion much surprise when comparison is made between the environment and life habits of the city dweller and the resident of the rural districts.

The country resident lives close to nature and has an unrivalled opportunity to study her manifestations. Indeed, to be successful, he must do so. He sits at the footstool of the greatest teacher mankind knows and consciously or unconsciously imbibes wisdom at the source. The natural laws that he learns here he must apply to his own operations. For this reason, if for no other, the dweller in the open evolves a process of deep thinking and pursues his studies to a definite conclusion. Such habits are naturally applied to the problems in which he takes an interest, whether they be those of his own business or in the wider realm of economics and social affairs.

This is the underlying reason for the close approximation to unanimity which usually marks decisions at farmers' conventions when questions of broad policy are up for discussion. The delegates have invariably given much thought in advance to the questions before them, have argued the pros and cons in their own minds, have come to a decision and know what they want.

In the cities life follows an altogether different trend. It is true that in his own business the city man has to think things through, but when it comes to wider social and economic matters, the average city man is more ready to accept the conclusions of others than to make his own. Not because he is afflicted with an inferiority complex but because, outside his own business, his interests are so diversified, that he spends little or no time attempting to solve questions of public policy to his own satisfaction. He signs a little of this and a little of that and in the process gathers little of wisdom.

Montreal home owners have been the largest borrowers under the home improvement plan, but the use of the plan has been more widespread in Toronto, according to detailed figures made public by Hon. J. Japan's Living Buddha

Conducted His Own Wedding Service Before 20,000 Guests

Performing his own wedding ceremony in the presence of 20,000 guests, Count Kocho Otani, the living Buddha of Japan and spiritual leader of 13,000,000 Japanese Buddhists, married a beautiful 19-year-old poetess in Kyoto.

The count, hereditary abbot of one of the greatest Buddhist sects, celebrated ancient rituals that united him in marriage with Princess Yoshiko Tokudaiji, granddaughter of the famous Prince Kimmihito.

To celebrate his marriage the count distributed 1,500,000 yen ($420,000) to the poor while his tall bride gave away 1,500,000 classical fans to the wedding guests and to other friends.

The bride wore 11 vari-colored kimonos, each on top of the others, surmounted by a short embroidered coat, for the ceremony.

Invisible Ray Worked

Stopped Four Cars On Lonely Road In England

The London correspondent of the Ottawa Journal tells this story: Some time ago one heard strange rumors of experiments by our military authorities with a Weisman invisible ray that was to furnish a complete reply to the new air peril. In the wilds of Wiltshire this strange story cropped up again with what seemed impressive corroboration of categorical detail.

My host, who has a cottage near Salisbury Plain, told me that friends of his were motoring across that desolate wilderness when suddenly without ostensible reason their engine came to a stop. Three other cars on the same stretch of road were similarly held up, and, like the one of which I got the details, were unable to find what was wrong with the works.

After a few minutes along came a police sergeant on a pushbike. He asked what was wrong, and was told the occupants of the car could not make out. Whereon he looked at his watch, and said: "Just get back in your car and wait. It will be O.K. in 10 minutes." And so it proved in every case.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning

The liver should put out two pounds of bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just poisons in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You feel constipated. Harsh stools go into the body, and you feel sour, sick and the world looks puny.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get rid of the poison. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes these good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of a doctor but have no salutory or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Satisfactorily return anything else. 25c.

New Voyage Of Discovery

Scientists Hope To Get Valuable Information For Navigators

An Italian sailor-scientist, is planning to sail around the world on a new voyage of discovery in a scientifically equipped ketch, which carries an auxiliary motor and plenty of room for scientific and photographic laboratories and a library on conditions of the seven seas. Captain Sorrentino hopes to prove not only that a single competent navigator can make his way through most of the stormy oceans of the world, but that such a voyage will give valuable information to navigators. He expects to give Italy extensive oceanographic, astronomical and other scientific data. Moreover, he will be equipped with still and cinema cameras to make a picture record of his travels.

Gets All The Scoops

Mussolini Reserves Right To Publish Important News First

Benito Mussolini, once a newspaper editor, must have suffered keen anguish when the opposition "scooped" him. He is still a newspaper editor, but with this difference that he is in a position to "scoop" all the other Italian newspapers. When his Popolo d'Italia publishes an important editorial regarding government policy, or some weighty official pronouncement, Mussolini orders all Italian newspapers to print a three-line announcement like this: "The Popolo d'Italia to-day carries an important article on such and such a subject."

No other newspaper may reproduce the article until the following day, so Italians must buy Il Duce's newspaper to read it.

New Insulin Preparation

Medical Scientists Of Toronto University Promise More Effective Treatment

Research medical scientists at University of Toronto have produced a new insulin preparation more effective in treatment of diabetes than earlier preparations. Dr. H. J. Cody, president of the university, now on a tour of western Canada, told an alumni dinner at Winnipeg.

The new "modification" of insulin is known as zinc protamine insulin, he said. It has been produced on a commercial basis by the Connaught laboratories, connected with the university, for the past two months.

Results showed that in most cases diabetes who used the new preparation had longer immunity from diabetic symptoms and required less frequent injections, Dr. Cody said.

Just Like A Horse

Brothers Invent Tractor Which Is Guided By Reins

A "giddyup tractor"—driven horse fashion—was demonstrated for Latter Day Saint officials near Salt Lake City, Utah, by two inventive brothers.

Spectators watched Bert Bonham straddle a plough seat, grasp leather reins and drive out upon a field.

When he pulled on the reins, the machine halted. When he released them it moved forward. A hard pull set the rig moving backward and a jerk on one rein turned the machine.

"Just like a horse," he explained. "It's all in that little rein hook behind the seat. One man can sit on the plough and yet handle the tractor up ahead."

Were Not Overlooked

Four English Workers Received Special Invitation To Coronation

Among the honored guests at the coronation were four workers from Britain's own tight little isle: Miss Lizzie McCulloch, a Glasgow weaver; Miss Doris Griffiths, who works for the General Electric in Birmingham; Leslie Pollard, a pit boy in a colliery near Chesterfield; and Elford Thomas, employed in a steel and tinplate plant at Pontardawe, South Wales.

All four received invitations from the president of the Industrial Welfare Society. The society's president is named Albert Frederick George and he also is head of a larger organization known as the British Empire.

Lady Astor's Mistake

British Woman Member Forgot Usual Procedure Of House

Little intricacies of procedure give even uneventful sessions a flavor of interest in the British House of Commons. Yesterday in the Daily Sketch, who reports that even some members are not as well versed as they might be. For example, Lady Astor, the first woman to take her seat in the House, has been there for 18 years. Yet at question-time Lady Astor showed that she has not grasped—or perhaps she momentarily forgot—an essential rule of the game. She put a question to Mr. Morrison, the Minister of Agriculture, and he answered: "No, sir." "I'm not a sir," Lady Astor flashed back. What she overlooked was that Mr. Morrison's "sir" was not directed to her, but to the Speaker. No M.P. talks to another M.P. across the floor, but must always address the chair.

Canada's Poultry And Eggs

Gross Value In Year 1936 Estimated At $81,118,000

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics estimates the 1936 gross value of poultry and eggs in Canada at $81,118,000, the highest mark since 1931 and $3,985,000 greater than that of 1935.

It estimates the nation's poultry at December 1, 1936 at a total of 47,533,700 of which 43,491,600 were hens and chickens and the total value of poultry at $40,351,000 based on average prices.

Poultry produced 219,428,000 dozen eggs, estimated, compared with 223,640,000 dozen in 1935, but the 1936 price averaged 10.5 cents a dozen, giving production an estimated value of $40,767,000 compared with $37,763,000 in 1935 when the price averaged 17 cents. The 1936 value was the highest since 1930.

Better Farming Methods

Care Is Needed To Protect The Soil: Western Farmers Would Have to Take Care or they would make a desert of the plains, said Major Duncan Stuart, of Calgary, in giving evidence before the Turgeon Royal grain commission.

Layoffs of former farmer and rancher who has studied soil conditions, Major Stuart said rainfall was so light care was needed to protect the vegetable soil and fibre. The soil could be protected and its fertility maintained, he said.

Rotation of crops, use of fertilizers, more livestock and plowing in of clover crops and cultivation of trees would aid. This was the harder way of life, he said, but it was needed more than charity or seed or other forms of relief.

Mussolini Pledges To Do All In His Power To Prevent Another War

Tokyo.—Premier Mussolini's signature stood beneath a pledge to "do all in our power" to prevent another European war.

Italy's due declared in a signed interview given to K. K. Kawakami, Washington correspondent of the Tokyo "Nichi Nichi" that his country's colonial desires have been satisfied and she now wants peace.

Italy is arming, he said, because she must "in the face of the gigantic armaments of other nations."

The present situation is "pregnant with evil possibilities," the dictator continued, but "war is not inevitable. We shall do all in our power to forestall it."

"Italy's colonial desire has been satisfied by the annexation of Ethiopia, a huge territory with great possibilities," Mussolini asserted. "Its development needs much time and energy and capital."

"Italy desires to co-operate with other nations having African colonies. I am ready for a settlement with Great Britain relative to the British territories adjoining ours, namely Kenya and Sudan."

But what about Spain? the interviewer asked.

"We have asked General Franco for nothing," the Italian premier replied. "Italy has done or will do nothing which might infringe on Spain's territorial integrity."

"The Italian volunteers, whose numbers have been greatly exaggerated, will come home as soon as an agreement is reached for the removal of other volunteers who are far more numerous. Italy has no intention of concerning herself with Spanish affairs after the civil war is ended."

Do Italian and British interests conflict in the Mediterranean?

"If the Mediterranean is a highway of other nations, it is the life of Italy," Mussolini answered. "We have repeatedly stated that we do not intend to menace that highway."

"We say, however, that our rights and vital interests must be respected. If any nation schemes to close what was once a Roman sea to suffocate our people, then we shall spring to our feet like one man ready for a titanic struggle with a supreme determination unprecedented in history."

On July 15 they will go to Aberystwyth to open the new buildings of the National Library of Wales and in the afternoon to Caernarvon where they will be welcomed by the Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George as castle constable.

Regained Fifth Position

Canada Back In Former Place Among Trading Nations

Ottawa.—Canada regained fifth position among the trading nations of the world in 1936, it was announced by Trade Minister W. D. Euler. With a total trade of $1,638,000,000, Canada fell in behind Great Britain, United States, Germany and France.

It was nothing new for Canada to stand fifth among world nations, that position being occupied from 1926 to 1930 and in 1932. Canada dropped to seventh place in 1931, was eighth in 1933 and sixth in 1934 and 1935.

The feature of Canada regaining fifth position has been the increase of exports. In export trade in 1936, Canada stood fourth, ahead of France; but in total trade, France went ahead of Canada.

The following is the order of the first 12 countries in total trade: Great Britain, United States, Germany, France, Canada, Japan, Belgium, Netherlands, India, South Africa, Australia and Argentina.

Canada's trade showed a greater recovery during 1936 than world trade generally. Canadian exports totalling $1,027,902,000 were 22.6 per cent. higher than in 1935 while the total exports of 24 leading trading nations, including Canada, were $15,235,190,000, an increase of only six per cent.

Would Curb Relief

Sir Edward Beatty Says Strong Action Should Be Taken By Government

Montreal.—Sir Edward Beatty, president of Canadian Pacific Railway Company, told shareholders at the annual meeting that "strong action on the part of all governmental authorities will be required to curb the relief expenditures which are tending to increase despite returning prosperity."

"A solution of the tangled railway problem still most urgently required," he said. "A serious note of warning with which the Duff commission concluded its report is being ignored. The tremendous waste involved in the operation of duplicate services, which that commission hoped to eliminate, continues."

"A solution which could be adopted to the great advantage of the taxpayers and without injury to employees or railway patrons is widely accepted as logical and desirable. However, it awaits political sponsorship," he declared.

The statement showed net ordinary revenue of $80,488,439, compared with ordinary expenditures of $71,174,501. Direct employment relief expenditures totalled $13,270,057.

In his budget speech, Mr. Hepburn estimated the surplus at $7,343,000.

Relief Expenditures

Canada Has Spent Nearly $800,000, According To Estimate

Ottawa.—Canada has spent nearly $800,000,000 on relief.

Bank of Canada statisticians placed the amount spent by Dominion, provincial and municipal governments to the end of March, 1936, at $635,000,000.

In his budget speech at the past session of parliament Finance Minister Dunning estimated $50,000,000 as the Dominion's contribution to relief in the fiscal year ended March 31 last.

If provinces and municipalities spent as much in the past fiscal year as they did in the 12 months ended March 31, 1936, $90,000,000 more would be added, but their costs are believed to have been reduced.

The Bank of Canada has not sought to estimate expenditures after March 31, 1936, but up to that date from 1930 the Dominion's expenditures through its own agencies and in contribution to provincial and municipal agencies was $260,000,000. The provinces spent about $260,000,000 and the municipalities $115,000,000. Aside from outright payments, the Dominion lent the provinces about $92,000,000 during that period under relief acts.

The division of the $635,000,000 total expenditure was approximately as follows: Public works $231,000,000, agricultural relief and aid $42,000,000 and direct and miscellaneous relief $362,000,000.

For Flood Victims

Toronto, Ont.—Contributions for relief of western Ontario flood victims reached $150,000 May 6, Red Cross Society officials reported. The society asked for $250,000.

Empire Parliamentary Representatives Meet The King at Luncheon

Busy Days For Tweedsmuir

Active Program That Will Occupy Vice-Royal Couple Until September

Ottawa.—This week will start a program of activity for the governor-general and Lady Tweedsmuir that will keep them almost constantly on the move till next September 7.

The vice-regal couple will take part in ceremonies here in connection with the coronation in London of King George, and will preside over an official dinner at Government House.

May 15 they will entertain about 3,000 guests at a coronation garden party in the Governor-General House grounds. Three days later they will leave on a short tour through western Ontario, during which they will attend the running of the King's Plate, Canadian racing classic, at Woodbine Park, Toronto, May 22.

For two weeks they will be in residence at the citadel, Quebec, but will leave June 7 for a week's tour of the Maritime provinces, returning to Quebec.

The governor-general will come to Ottawa June 23 to speak before the annual meeting of the Canadian Medical Association, returning to Quebec thereafter.

July 3 their Excellencies will leave on a long trip through the west and northwest, visiting the Calgary stampede and going down the Mackenzie river to Aklavik. The governor-general will make part of the trip by plane.

He is expected thereafter to go to Tweedsmuir Park, near mouth of Bella Coola river in British Columbia where his countryman, Alexander Mackenzie, reached the waters of the Pacific at the end of his great trek across the continent from Montreal a century and a half ago.

It is expected the vice-regal party will return via Prince Rupert, travelling by train through the famous Totem Pole preserve on the Skeena river.

Making History

Dominion Troops To Mount Guard At Buckingham Palace

London.—For the first time in history Dominion troops this week will mount guard at Buckingham Palace.

According to these arrangements only Australia will take over the full guard for 24 hours. Guard duties will be: Sunday, Canada, sentries, noon to 6 p.m.; Monday, Australian full guard, 24 hours; Tuesday, New Zealand, noon till 6 p.m.; Thursday, South Africa, noon to 6 p.m.

Bands for the changing of the guard ceremonies will be supplied by the Brigade of Guards. Indian troops probably will mount guard May 18.

Message From His Majesty

London.—The king sent the following message of condolence to Chancellor Hitler of Germany: "I am deeply shocked by news of the disaster which has befallen the airship Hindenburg, and I hasten to express to you, Mr. Chancellor, my sincere condolences on this tragic event, involving as it does the loss of so many lives." The message was signed "George VI."

Inquiry Regarding Bombing Of Guernica Would Be Welcome

London.—Foreign Secretary Eden defined the government's attitude toward the Spanish civil war as:

"It must use its whole influence to circumscribe this strife, limit its sphere and, one day I trust, bring it to an end."

In a debate on the Spanish situation in the House of Commons, and particularly on the Guernica bombing incident, Eden said the government would be glad to see an inquiry conducted into the destruction of that Basque town.

"It does seem from information which has come to us so far," he said, "a particularly deplorable example of bombing and machine-gunning from the air."

"If that sort of thing is repeated and intensified on a larger scale it is going to mean a terrible future for Europe."

Eden suggested small, neutral states should carry out the inquiry which was asked by the Spanish government in a note presented to the foreign secretary by Ambassador Pablo de Azcarate.

Such an inquiry, he said, would be designed "not in an effort to pillory the past but in an attempt to better the future."

London.—The Spanish government asked Great Britain to sponsor a movement for an international investigation into the destruction of the Basque city of Guernica.

In a note presented to Foreign Secretary Eden by Spanish Ambassador Pablo de Azcarate, Valencia suggested Britain head a move to have the bombing of the city investigated by the 27-nation non-intervention committee.

(Basques charge the city was destroyed by an insurgent bombardment carried out by German flyers. The insurgents claim the city was destroyed by retreating Basque troops and Germany has denied the bombing claims.)

At the head of the staircase leading to Westminster hall stood the prime ministers of the empire: Stanley Baldwin of the United Kingdom, Mackenzie King of Canada, Joseph Lyons of Australia, Michael Savage of New Zealand, and J. B. M. Herzog of South Africa.

Nearly stood the leaders of delegations to the empire parliamentary conference, among them Ernest Lapointe, Canadian minister of justice; Speaker W. E. Foster of the Canadian senate; Speaker Pierre Casgrain of the House of Commons at Ottawa, and Norman Hapel, speaker of the Ontario legislative assembly.

As His Majesty quietly moved among them they were presented.

Lord Hailsham proposed the king's health.

"This coronation lunch," the lord chancellor declared, "is attended by the representatives, not of 4,000,000 but of 400,000,000 of his subjects—not summoned by His Majesty to do his bidding but freely chosen as the elected representatives of the self-governing parliaments of the empire."

"In the slow progress of centuries, the throne, because it is not the symbol of arbitrary powers but the embodiment of our liberties, is the connecting link of free commonwealths."

"I thank you," His Majesty replied, "very sincerely for the kind words in which you have drunk my health."

"It is a great pleasure for me to be the guest of the United Kingdom branch of the Empire Parliamentary Association. It also gives me a particular opportunity, which I am very pleased to have, of giving a word of welcome to my prime ministers and other ministers from overseas as well as to so many representatives of the several parliaments of the empire."

"This is an historic occasion. It is the first time the sovereign has been present at lunch in Westminster hall to meet those who represent the parliaments of the empire."

"What worthier setting could be imagined than this ancient hall, which has been at once the scene and silent witness of so many of the stirring events in the history of parliaments in this country?"

Dirigible Hindenburg Wrecked by Explosion At U. S. Landing Field

Lakehurst, N.J.—Germany's great silver Hindenburg, the world's largest dirigible, was ripped apart by an explosion that sent her crumpling to the naval landing field a flaming wreck with horrible death to about a third of those aboard her.

The American Zeppelin Company, through its press representative, Harry Bruno, placed the death toll at 32 of the 97 aboard. The company listed 80 of the 86 passengers and 44 of the 61-man crew as the disaster's survivors.

An explosion of the No. 2 gas cell toward the stern of the ship was named as the cause of the disaster by state aviation commissioner Giff Robt Wilson, who called the blast "strange."

The highly-inflammable hydrogen gas billowed into fierce flame as the explosion plummeted the ship to the airfield. Ground spectators said crew members in the stern of the ship "never had a chance" to escape.

The disaster struck without the least warning. The ship had angled her blunt nose toward the mooring mast, the spider-like landing lines had been snaked down from her belly and the ground crew had grasped the ropes from the nose, when the explosion roared out, scattering ground crew and spectators alike.

The passengers, who were waving gaily a minute before from the observation windows that slit the belly of the dirigible, were so stunned they could not describe later what happened. Some jumped to the sandy landing field along with members of the crew. Others seemed to have been pitched from the careening sky liner as it made its death plunge.

The heat drove back would-be rescuers, so it could not be determined for how many the Hindenburg made a burning tomb. Fire departments from nearby communities converged on the field and soon had streams of water playing on the broken airliner. The flames still enveloped the outline of the ship, apparently feeding on the fuel oil supply which the Hindenburg carried for her Diesel motors.

F. W. Von Meister, vice-president of the American Zeppelin Transport Company, the general United States agents for the German Zeppelin Transport Company, the Hindenburg's owners, said there were two possible causes for the explosions.

First he listed the rainy conditions which prevailed at the naval air station when the landing was attempted. The ship cruised around over the field for an hour to ride out a rain storm and nosed down while rain was still falling.

The rainy condition, Von Meister said, would make for creation of a spark of static electricity when the landing ropes were dropped and such a spark might have touched off the highly-explosive hydrogen gas which gave the long silver ship its lifting power.

The second theory Von Meister advanced was that a spark flew from one of the engines when they were throttled down for the landing. The ship had been valving hydrogen preparatory to landing, and he theorized some of the gas might have gathered in a pocket under the tail surfaces and detonated when the spark flew back.

Some authorities scouted the theory that explosion could have been caused by the ignition of hydrogen inside the gas cells. They said a mixture of 20 per cent. free air with hydrogen would be necessary to cause an explosion, indicating the first blast must have occurred outside one of the gas cells.

Aeronautical experts said the only way they could explain an explosion inside the ship would be that free hydrogen had in some way escaped and was lying in the stern of the ship where it was accidentally ignited.

The ship was 76 hours and 23 minutes out of Frankfurt-on-Main, her home port, when the disaster occurred.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

Though the Coronation ceremony is over, festivities in connection with it will continue for some time throughout the British Commonwealth of Nations. It has been significant, particularly to the Dominions, that their premiers appeared at the Coronation on equal footing with the British government heads, the Dominions being accorded equal status under the Statute of Westminster passed in 1931.

The Coronation also has had the effect of bringing before other nations the goodwill that exists between the countries that form the Commonwealth, and brings to mind the colonizing policies of Great Britain in the years that have passed. The British Empire is something to rightly feel proud of, not in a boasting manner, but because of the far-sighted policies of its statesmen, now dead, who helped to spread British influence and ideals around the globe. May a continuance of co-operative political influence continue throughout the reign of the newly-crowned king.

Turning to provincial affairs, one cannot help concluding that Premier Aberhart has been a complete "wash-out." Alberta newspapers which two years ago warned the people of the economic dangers into which they were being led by the then school-master, were reviled and told they had no sense, vision or any right even to criticize, and later were threatened with coercive measures to prevent informing the people of the true conditions pertaining to the crackpot theories of a man inexperienced in governmental affairs but who thought he could "barge" his way roughshod over everybody.

Preaching to an audience every Sunday at his Bible Institute, composed largely of people subject to emotional impulses, he evidently came to the conclusion that regardless of logic and sound reasoning he could bring all the people of Alberta to his heel, and those who refused would be compelled to do as he told them. Now that the people are awakening from the hypnotic spell which Aberhart's promise of $25 monthly cast over them, he complains that he has been thwarted by the financial interests.

The truth is that the people have found out that he has played the role of a fakir. He admits he has no plan; he refuses to quit until he is kicked out, yet only a short time ago he solemnly declared that if he stood in the way of Social Credit policies being put into effect, he would make way for another leader. He has been given a fair trial and has been found wanting. It is time he stepped down and out, for he has not kept his word and his record is not another example of how easy it is to fool the masses with tub-thumping oratory or bellying phrases which sound impressive but mean nothing.

There appears on the horizon a new leader for the provincial Liberal party, E. L. Gray, present manager of the Eastern Irrigation District, and a former deputy minister in the U.F.A. government of Alberta. Mr. Gray is a comparatively young man who has made good, and though this paper is not an avowed Liberal supporter, yet it would support any party which indicates it is possessed of sound leadership in provincial administration. Mr. Gray is a product of the sister province of Saskatchewan, who came to Alberta about ten years ago. He is possessed of good judgment, impresses people with his sincerity of purpose, particularly in his management of the Irrigation project, and undoubtedly will instill confidence in the minds of those who desire to see a return to sanity in provincial administration. If Mr. Gray is definitely selected as the Liberal leader, the party will have a man of good business judgment who should gain support, especially among the younger people of the province. Gray doesn't give any pyrotechnic displays of oratory, but he does talk common-sense and does it convincingly. We venture to state that people of all parties could place confidence in him.

This column is written at the beginning of the week, because the writer left for Edmonton on Wednesday to attend the convocation of the University of Alberta, and maybe to make a visit to the Parliament buildings, just to satisfy our curiosity. Newspapermen doubtless are not very warmly welcomed there, but they have a persistent trait of often noting in where they are not wanted, particularly by those who only want the rosy side of things to appear in print. However, newspapers are printed for the information not only of those who agree with their policies, but also for those of opposite opinions, and though people may revile this and that newspaper for printing something they do not find palatable, yet they continue to strive to honestly serve in their respective spheres of influence regardless of politics. If this paper was published merely to secure advertising and to play the part of a spineless jellyfish it might make a little more direct cash revenue, but our conception of the duty of a newspaper rates higher than that of mere opportunism and trimming its sails to every passing breeze.

The dust nuisance in town is again making itself felt, and the surfacing of roads is the only remedy to minimize it. The mayor has done something towards it by inaugurating a surfacing program, but he can only go as far as the money will permit. The laying of gravel is of little use; it may help to level but it does not curtail dust; it increases it. Far better to spend a certain amount every year in surfacing than trying to make the money spread over the whole area that requires maintenance. As a matter of fact the town receives such a comparatively small amount in revenue that only a small amount of surfacing each year can be done. If taxes are added to there is a general outcry. However, let's hope that something will be done and support the council in any efforts they may propose to minimize the annoyance of dust and grit flying in your eyes and mouth.

Eat More Fish

Columnist Says "Fish and Chips" Could Absorb 60% of Canadian Fish

Long associated as a dish for the masses in England, the humble fish and chips is apparently gaining recognition in Canada. At least one large restaurant chain in Toronto and Montreal make a feature of this dish and according to the caterers have struck a very responsive chord in the palates of their customers.

Recently a columnist in the British Fishing News predicted that fish-and-chip shops in this country, if they were properly developed, could absorb 60% of the fish landed, as they do in Great Britain. In the old country, he says, everyone in the business earns a good living, especially the fishermen who benefit by the vast markets created by this lively trade.

A few Canadian restaurant executives are of the opinion that the humble fish and chips has real possibilities. The chief handicap in the past, according to one, has been that no effort has been made to place this business on a quality basis. The merchandising of fish and chips has been largely confined to poorer districts and people have not been properly educated to think of fish and chips as the wholesome and savory food it is. Were more restaurants to feature it and give it the imprimatur of quality, there might very well be a new habit created among Canadians and a substantial fillip given to the fish industry.

Death of A. Carswell of Lundbreck

The Journal announces with regret the death of A. Carswell, proprietor of the L. B. K. store at Lundbreck. Ever since this paper commenced publication in 1921 he has been a regular subscriber and one was sure of a courteous reception if visiting in Lundbreck, when Mr. and Mrs. Carswell operated the Red Tub Tea Room in connection with the store. He originally was a clerk with the Hudson's Bay Co. in Edmonton.

He is survived by his wife and one daughter, to whom sympathy is extended in their bereavement.

Girl Guide Badge Presentation

Badge presentation was held for the second Coleman company girl guides on Monday evening. Several badges were presented by Divisional Commissioner Mrs. R. P. Borden. Miss Shiela Devine received her all round cord, Miss Winnifred Dunlop was given her captain's warrant, Mrs. A. Westworth, her lieutenant's warrant, and Miss Ruth Morrison was made District Commissioner for Coleman.

Mrs. J. Ankell was presented with a "Girl Guide Thank You Badge" for instructing the girls in their drill for Coronation Day.

Coleman Girl Sees Coronation Procession

A young lady from Coleman who saw the Coronation procession from a point of vantage is Miss Prue Borden, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Borden, who remained in London after her parents returned in December. She was fortunate in securing a seat at Canada House, where the procession passed twice in its journey to and from Buckingham Palace. Even securing seats in such an advantageous position required arriving there the night before, states Dr. Borden, owing to the dense throngs which began to assemble the day prior to the Coronation. However, to witness such a historic procession is worth many inconveniences, such as missing a night's sleep and waiting for hours for the procession to pass. London's crowds are noted for their goodwill, and therefore the tedious period of waiting is relieved by general merriment. Even the guests in Westminster had to be there long before 8 a.m., the outer doors being closed at that time, though the ceremony did not begin till 11 a.m. This would be 3 a.m. Coleman time.

The Churches

Mother's Day at United Church

Mother's Day will be kept at the United church on Sunday morning. This is always an outstanding event in the life of the congregation. The Sunday school and the congregation will meet for a combined service at eleven o'clock. A special order of service will be used and there will be some extra music. It is hoped that every mother present may receive a gift of a flower from the school. In any case parents are asked to co-operate with children for this occasion. There will be no regular session of the Sunday school. A cordial invitation is extended to all who care to attend.

St. Alban's Church

Sunday, May 16, will be White Sunday the services being: 7 a.m. Holy communion, 9 a.m. Holy communion, 12.30 p.m. Sunday school, 7 p.m. Evensong and sermon.

Three Supinas Join Rangers

Two Harlequin players, James Radley and J. Truman, will sport a Coleman jersey at the opening of the soccer season on May 22 at Lethbridge. These players have secured employment here and their ability is known throughout the province as they were the spark-plugs of the Supina attack when that team was undoubtedly the best in the province. Geo. Ure, who had been considered as a prospect for Coleman, has gone to Kimberley, where, it is reported, he has secured employment.

Several enquiries have been received by Secretary James Park from other players, but it is doubtful if any more will be brought in, as it is the aim of the local club to give all likely juniors a fair chance to make good on the senior club without weakening it to such an extent that Coleman would be a "pushover" to other clubs in the league.

Tom McCloy and D. Nevay, members of the local football club executive, motored to Lethbridge on Wednesday where they were successful in obtaining the services of Bill Knight, clever centre of Lethbridge Supinas, who accompanied them back to Coleman Wednesday evening.

Student nurses from this district presented with diplomas at the convocation services of the University of Alberta on Thursday were Celestine Cassagrande, Hillcrest; Phyllis L. Hoare, Pincher Creek and Wilma Dorothy Halliwell of Coleman. 13 student nurses were recommended for diplomas.

Dryer than the Sahara!

THE Sahara Desert has its ices—pools of refreshing water along the Caravan Route—but moisture in a telephone cable means Trouble. Consequently, one of the many important steps in the making of telephone cable is the expulsion of moisture. Here a length of cable comprising twelve hundred telephone circuits (2,400 wires) is shown leaving one of the huge ovens in the Montreal plant of the Northern Electric Company, Limited, where a temperature of 275° F. is maintained under a vacuum which removes every perceptible trace of moisture from the cable. The cable is then wheeled into an air-conditioned chamber at the rear which is dryer than the Sahara Desert; here it awaits its lead covering which is applied in a hot plastic state under several tons pressure without the cable again encountering the natural atmosphere; it is then ready for use.

Deerfly Fly And Spider Are Useful To Astronomers

Astronomers still turn to the spider for one of the most necessary accessories of their meridian telescopes. For fine cross hairs, to stretch across the field of the telescope and mark the central line by which the passage of stars is to be gauged, there is nothing to excel a strand from a spider's web.

Even the unpopulous housefly may furnish a serviceable part for a research instrument. An astronomer found a fly's wing useful in the construction of a delicate device for measuring the heat of remote stars.—April Corcoran.

Gift From Queen Mary

The officers and men of the Welsh Guards have received as a memento of the visit of Queen Mary to the Welsh Guards' service at Wellington Barracks on St. David's Day an autographed photograph of King George V. in the uniform of a Field Marshal. It now occupies a place of honor in the Commanding Officer's room. In an adjoining room is the uniform of King George V. as Colonel-in-Chief of the Regiment. It is kept in an air-tight case.

If you are annoyed with itching piles or rectal hemorrhoids, do not neglect the same or run the risk of an operation. Any itching, soreness or painful passage of stool is a warning and proper treatment should be secured at once. For this purpose get from any druggist, a package of Hemorrhoid and use as directed. This medicine is the only one that actually relieves the itching and soothes and aids in healing the sore, tender spots. Hemorrhoid is a physician's prescription and is highly recommended. It is easy to use and it seems the height of folly for anyone to put an operation over a simple remedy which is so pleasant to use and may be had at such a reasonable cost.

Took Close Calculation

To Get Canadian Pacific Ship Under Golden Gate Bridge

With masts clipped and added ballast in her holds, the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Britain passed under the new San Francisco Golden Gate bridge.

The flagship of the Canadian Pacific steamship fleet, largest vessel yet to pass under the new span, cleared the arch with about 15 feet to spare.

Captain G. M. Parry, Nova Scotia-born commander of the 42,500-ton vessel, explained it took a lot of close calculation to enable his charge to enter the harbor. First, it was figured when the lowest tide would be, then nine feet of mast were removed and the ship was loaded with ballast to make her ride deeper in the water. Safety nets strung under the bridge, where work is still in progress, were removed.

The clearance between the bridge and the harbor entrance is 220 feet at mean high water, but at low tide there are several additional feet of clearance.

Revenue From Carelessness

Misdirected Letters Netted U.S. Government About $230,000 Last Year

Carelessness people in addressing their mail meant a profit of approximately $230,000 to the United States government in 1936.

Commenting on this, Burton Cowles, of the Washington dead-letter division, said: "The number of foolish mistakes people make is so great that it is almost unbelievable." There were 12,250,000 misdirected letters during the past year, he said. Of those, 108,454 contained $96,326, not counting small change.

The government revenue from all sources of this nature, including sale of unclaimed packages, recovery of unused stamps and fees collected for returning misdirected letters, totalled $229,353.

THE YELLOW BRIAR

A Story of the Irish on the Canadian Countryside

By PATRICK SLATER

By arrangement with Thomas Allen, Publisher, Toronto.

The next spring William Marshall was 21, and his father set him up in life after the fashion of the times. For livestock, he received with his father's blessing a yoke of young oxen, a heifer, due to calve later, and an elegant pair of small pigs. His farming equipment consisted of a wagon and its contents. There were a few bags of seed spring wheat and oats, some millet and seed potatoes. For tools he had, among other things, a crosscut saw, a rip saw, an auger, two cant hooks, logging chains, a cradle, and a leg of ironmongery supplies. Early in the spring, his brother Maxwell went over with him, and the boys put in the first season's crop on the Marshall place. The cattle found good pickings in an old beaver meadow.

The large fallow of fallen trees was as dry as tinder. The lads made ready for the burning. Brush fires were laid in a hundred places and flaming torches of dry cedar passed quickly through the fallow. Within half an hour the entire field was a roaring mass of crackling flames shooting up to the sky in sparkling columns of fire. Great columns of whirling black smoke rose to drift in clouds over the valley for miles around. The heat was intense. Flames lit up the sky throughout the night and for days afterward the fire growled and smoldered in the great hardwood logs as it reduced them to powdery ashes.

Then the dirty work of making land began. The field was an ash pit with stumps sticking up in all directions and was littered over with half-burned logs and charred debris of the fire. The stumps could wait for a more convenient season. Scarred logs and crooked, cranky limbs were yanked into fresh piles, with much prodding of the rumps of the oxen, and the brandings were then prepared for a fresh burning. Satisfying stank on the young lads, who fought amid choking dust for every foot of farm land.

By the middle of May that spring the sower went forth to sow on the Marshall farm. The oxen pulled a triangular drag with wooden teeth in and out amid the stumps, scratching the black, inviting earth. The wheat was sown broadcast; and the drag did what it could to harrow the seed in. The oats and millet were sown next—and the land loved them. It was a slow, laborious task splitting cedar rails and fence-making to keep the cattle off the growing crops. And having done some of it myself, I speak with respect of the heart-breaking, back-hurting job of cradling lodged oats on a stumpy hillside. However, the harvest yielded two tidy stacks of grain; and they stood close to a log stable neatly thatched to keep the cattle and calf as snug the next winter as bugs in a rug.

In the fall of that year the first log-house was built on the Marshall farm, a one-roomed affair with a ladder to the loft; and it was up that ladder I climbed the first night I slept on the farm. The Marshall boys had wrought hard, early and late, whipsawing out the rough planks for the floor and the sheathing for the roof. The shingles were cut on the place. Neighbors lent a hand at putting up the cabin.

Later in the fall, before his brother left him, William Marshall took a week off and went out to look himself up a wife.

CHAPTER V.

William Marshall walked across country by way of Woodbridge to the home farm on the 4th line of Marchbanks; and there, nestled by an orchard, a warm welcome was awaiting him.

Poor, simple Willie Marshall! He was not faring forth to court a girl he loved. The mating season of his life was upon him and he was hurrying him out of a hunting a woman to wife. He knew nothing of this specious, modern fiction that a man is only stirred to courting because of the bewitchery of some woman's charms. Neither, perhaps, did he realize that a youth out wintering in a bachelor's den is a good deal of the first woman he meets who is also mating-minded.

The mysteries of sex influence are, of course, beyond the depth of a simple, old man, always living single; but somehow, old bachelors and bachelor girls spend a good deal of time musing on a subject about which they are supposed to know nothing. And why not? Religion, poetry and art are all saturated with its delightful influences. Heaveny Father, what a waste of driven snow a sexless life would be! The mystery of mating love may have its roots feeding in the earth out of which all life comes, but a flower is unlike the soil out of which it grows. I have observed a dirty-mouthed young scoundrel I struck as mute and helpless as any honest minded lad by a slip of a girl with flat breasts and cheeks as white as milk. I have also observed a bold, bad woman, like Kitty O'Shea, fall desperately in love with a plain, pudgy little man, and be as timid and bashful about her love as any innocent, sweet country maid.

Romantic love had little to do with human match-making until a very recent date; and, even to-day, it seems to be, in the main, a home-smashing infection that catches idle men and silly women after they drift into the dangerous area of the farm. Farm has always married farm among the thrifty rural class in Europe—and the lad and the lass are thrown in with the acres. Bonds and mortgages marry mortgages and bonds among the town-dwellers; and the poor have always been lazy and listless in seeking far for their mates. Marrying love is distastefully mercenary among the Irish on the old sod. Unless she has a couple of Kerry cows for the dowry the emotional Celt demands that his bride be strong in back and legs for the carrying of the creels of turf. And after the songs are sung and the speeches made, something more enduring than love sickness is required to keep a home fire burning brightly in cabin or hall. Love of man and wife is a more sturdy plant. It is a cherishing, unselfish affection that pities, is long suffering—and forgives. To make a happy fireside clime for woman and wife, that's the true pathos and sublime o' human life."

The matter of finding a suitable wife for William became the subject of a lengthy and frank discussion between the young man and his parents. The matter was canvassed most diligently in the evenings, in that drowsy undertone in which folk discuss intimate things in the dark, after the others have gone to bed. Marriages may be made in heaven, but livable ones usually require the services of kindly matchmakers, who discreetly steer the young man's fancy in a direction where a suitable girl is quietly waiting for the likes of him. Now, setting up house-keeping on a bush farm requires more than the cabin and a bride. There is also the bed and bedding, and the kitchen and other household gear the right sort of a father-in-law gives his daughter on her going-out from home. Local prospects were canvassed carefully, but with little success. The Marshall problem for him. Before he went out to work in service the lad had been too young to be on courting bent. Moreover, he had since been converted; and, after trial, had joined the Methodist Church. It was at a camp meeting at Hogg's Hollow, in a season of great power and glory, that he had been brought under the awakening of the spirit, and had been made the subject of saving grace.

Universe Not Expanding

Light Rays Coming From Distant Stars Get Tired And Quit

Light rays coming from distant stars "get tired and quit," just as a human being does, Dr. Arthur Haas of the University of Notre Dame, believes. Addressing the American Physical Society, Dr. Haas declared that this property of light means that the universe is not expanding, as some astronomers and physicists believe, but remains quite constant. Dr. Haas declared the light shines because "photons" or particles of light, grow more and more tired until they eventually vanish.

What He Didn't Know

A gentleman in a bus was annoyed by the attentions of a fellow-passenger, who had been drinking, and was imparting various scraps of information in a dogmatic and aggressive manner.

Finally the gentleman said, "I am not interested in your information, sir, unless you could tell me something I don't know."

"Oh, I," said the other, "I'll tell you something you don't know. My sister's your washerwoman, and I'm wearin' one of your shirts."

The British yard originally was defined as the length of the arm of King Henry I., by royal decree.

"You say you sang at the Metropolitan Opera? What was the aria?"

"Ten thousand square feet."

It restored me to health."

Little Helps For This Week

Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ who hath blessed us with all spiritual blessings. Ephesians 1:3.

Some murmur, if their sky is clear
And wholly bright to view,
And one small speck of dark
Appear
In their great heaven of blue:
And some with thankful awe
Filled,
If but one streak of light
One ray of God's great mercy glide
The elements of happiness in this present life no man can command, even if he could command himself, for they depend on the action of many wills, the purity of many hearts. By the highest law of God the holiest must ever bear the sins and sorrows of the rest; but over the blessedness of his own spirit circumstances need have no control, for God has given unlimited power to every man to preserve his own happiness although the sin in him something higher than that. He can do without happiness, and instead find blessedness.

Closely Resembles Linen

Paper Made From Wood Fibre Suitable For Clothes

Paper clothes, woven of yarn spun under water from wood fibre, soon may compete with linen fibre. The new yarn proved in tests to be stronger wet than dry, and neither stretched nor shrank with laundering or dry cleaning, according to a bulletin of Arthur D. Little, Inc., industrial chemists, Boston.

In appearance it most closely approximates linen, and this property has been a principal factor in present uses in shoe coverings, handbags and the newer sports suits. Continued improvement may make this paper product a significant addition to the present range of textile fibres, it is believed.

The fibres are less than three-hundredths of an inch long, as compared with individual cotton fibres which may be an inch long, and wool, linen and silk, which may be much longer.

Manufacturing On Prairies

Manufacturing in the three prairie provinces had an output of $235,000,000 during 1936 and gave employment to 260,000 persons. John East, chairman of the prairie division of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, told members at the annual meeting in Saskatoon.

The first English pipes were made of clay. These have been manufactured for 350 years. 2202

Does Not Interest Women

Science Is Apparently One Subject They Leave Alone

Women are not interested in science according to Dr. Robert W. Boyle, director of Physics and Electrical Engineering at the National Research Council, who addressed the Ottawa Board of Trade.

Outlining some of the achievements of scientific research he said science had emancipated women by evolving all kinds of household labor saving devices. Yet in more than seven years work at the council on problems connected with electrical devices, treatment of foods and refrigeration he had not received one idea or suggestion from a woman.

"I do not believe women, speaking generally, like science or are interested in it," he concluded.

Churches built on English Crown land have not been permitted to ring bells since the Reformation.

Will Keep His Promise

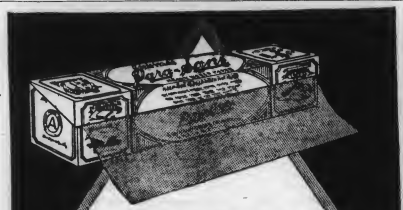

Sir Malcolm Campbell Not Trying For Land Speed Record

Fulfilling a pledge, Sir Malcolm Campbell has decided not to make any further attempts to break his own world land speed record of 304 miles per hour. "I made a definite promise to my family that if I reached the speed of 300 m.p.h. I would not make any further attempts on the automobile speed record," he explained. "I have reached 300, and I am to adhere to that promise, much to my regret."

But Sir Malcolm finds he cannot live without the thrill of speed. He has turned his attention from land to water.

For the last 13 months he has been engaged in construction of a new type of one-man high-speed motor boat. He hopes to try it out for the first time on Scotland's Loch Lomond in June.

On occasions, says the Archbishop of York, it is one's duty to kill. He must have a neighbor who plays a loud radio.
